Rural Hill Announces The Loch Norman Concert Series at Free Range Brewing

Huntersville, NC: Historic Rural Hill announced its partnership in a new concert series for the Charlotte area; The Loch Norman Concert Series will be held at Free Range Brewing on February 12, March 25, and April 2. Concerts begin at 8 PM. Tickets are $20 for a seat and $10 for standing room; all tickets come with one beer. The concert series is a joint venture between Rural Hill, Midwood Entertainment, and Maxx Music, and is hosted by Free Range Brewing at 2320 N. Davidson Street in Charlotte. Tickets are available at www.maxxmusic.com.

“Our goal is to bring world class Celtic music to Charlotte year-round,” notes Rural Hill Executive Director Jeff Fissel. “The Loch Norman Highland Games are an annual tradition for Rural Hill and we are thrilled to bring some of the sounds of the Games and the culture of Scotland to Free Range Brewing.”

Loch Norman Concert Series

2/12 – Alasdair Fraser and Natalie Haas - Scotland's premier fiddle ambassador and sizzingly-talented Californian cellist - bring driving rhythms and the groove of Scottish tunes as they revive the Scottish tradition of playing dance music on violin and cello. Fraser and Haas tour internationally and have released five critically acclaimed and award-winning albums.

3/25 – Scotland's Tannahill Weavers perform traditional sounds and incorporate the Great Highland Bagpipe into their ensemble setting. Inducted into the Scottish Traditional Music Hall of Fame, the band is named after Scottish poet Robert Tannahill, known as the "Weaver Poet."

4/2 – Piper Jones Band is high energy and centers around Highland bagpipes accompanied by the percussive chords of the bouzouki and drum. In addition to original instrumentals and traditional tunes from Ireland, Scotland, and Appalachia, the group sings powerful harmonies and can lead the audience in traditional Celtic dances.
